Highlights

- ▶ EssilorLuxottica [EL] delivered a strong Q2 2023 revenue of EUR6.7 bln [reported: +4.9% Y/Y, constant rates: +8% Y/Y], driven by broad-based growth in all segments and regions. On a comparable basis; Professional solutions rose 8.2%, driven by strong performance in the Asia Pacific due to Greater China's growth of >50%, a diversified customer based in the EMEAs, while North America saw a deceleration. In the Direct-to-Consumer segment, performance was up 7.8%. Comparable-store sales expanded 5% as >10% growth in EMEA, Asia-Pacific, and Latin America was dragged by North America's decline from negative and worsening retail sun business. EL maintains its mid-single-digit annual revenue growth from 2022 to 2026.
- ▶ EL reported H1 2023 EBIT margin of 18.4% [-10 bps Y/Y] as strong cost management offset inflationary headwinds. For full-year 2023, we estimate a margin of 17%, in line with consensus estimates.
- ▶ We maintain our EPS forecasts for 2023 of EUR6.04 and 2024 of EUR6.75.

Investment Rationale/Risk

- ▶ We maintain our recommendation for EL at 4-STARS [Buy]. We are positive towards EL's growth strategy, which is based on capturing the middle-class eyewear market in Asia at an attractive price point. The merger between Essilor and Luxottica has allowed EL to integrate the frames and lens businesses with a strong distribution footprint. The GrandVision acquisition is expected to increase EL's footprint by a +75% uplift in stores, mainly in Europe. We continue to like EL and remain confident it will achieve its 2022-2026 targets of mid-single-digit revenue growth, in line with our expectations.
- ▶ Key downside risks to our thesis include lower end-market demand, failure to derive synergy and merger benefits from LUX and GV, and currency exposure risks, especially with its USD exposure.
- ▶ Our 12-month target price for EL is EUR182 based on a 2024 P/E of 27x, close to its 5-year average P/E of 28.8x, based on its position as a proxy to the eyewear market globally.

Analyst's Risk Assessment

LOW MEDIUM HIGH

Our risk assessment reflects EssilorLuxottica's leading position in the eyecare and eyewear markets but also exposure to consumer confidence trends. While the Essilor eyecare business is significantly more defensive, Luxottica's premium branded eyewear and retail businesses are more highly discretionary in nature. The first half of 2020 has demonstrated that EL is not totally immune or resilient, leaving us to rate EL as medium risk.

Business Summary Aug 29, 2023

CORPORATE OVERVIEW: EssilorLuxottica [EL] is a fully integrated player in the eyewear industry. It was formed in 2018 via the combination of Essilor [EI] and Luxottica [LUX]. EL designs, manufactures, and sells corrective lenses and lens-related products and instruments, with global brands including Varilux (progressive lens), Crizal (anti-reflective coating), Transitions (lens equipped with photochromic dye that enable it to adapt to changing light, provide protection from UV rays) and Eyezen (lens that provide protection against strain on the eyes from extended use of digital devices).

LUX is a leader in the design, manufacture, and distribution of fashion, luxury, sports, and performance eyewear. Its brand portfolio includes proprietary brands such as Ray-Ban, one of the world’s leading lifestyle eyewear brands, and Oakley, a leader in the sport and performance category. It also licenses brands such as Dolce & Gabbana and Versace to augment its proprietary brand portfolio.

EL has almost 18,000 retail stores worldwide following the GrandVision acquisition, which added a further 7,000 stores to its existing 11,000 storebase. Key brands include Sunglass Hut and Lens Crafters. About 13,000 stores are company owned with the balance being franchised or licensed stores. Over 3,700 stores are based in North America with about 6,000 in Europe post-acquisition. Asia and Latin America have a further approximately 3,400 stores.

CORPORATE STRATEGY: EL’s strategy is to be able to meet the vision needs of all clients at various price points the world over. The price point strategy allows EL to segment the market via a variety of brands. The strategy revolves around further expanding its vertically integrated model, moving from pure manufacturer to an integrated supply chain, closer to the end consumer. With the retail eyewear industry still relatively fragmented globally, EL has an opportunity to capture additional share across all its key markets.

To that end, the strategy revolves around capturing and serving the vision needs of the growing middle class in Asia. Meanwhile, large untapped opportunities are available for vision correction and sunglass protection. The merger between EL and LUX was aimed at integrating the frames and lens businesses, while capitalizing on the strong distribution footprint across both businesses. The GrandVision acquisition further increases EL’s distribution footprint by a 75% uplift in stores (mainly Europe based).

MARKET PROFILE: EL restructured its reporting into two operating segments; [1] Professional Solutions and [2] Direct to Consumer. The Professional Solutions segment comprises most of the former Essilor Optical Instruments and Equipment segments aimed at the Optician/eye care professional market. The Direct to Consumer business comprises of the former Essilor Sunglasses & Reader division as well as the mostly consumer-led Luxottica divisions. In 2021, Professional Solutions comprised about 48% of revenues and the Consumer segment made up the balance.

Geographically, EL derived about 46% of revenues from North America. This was followed by 37% and 12% contributions from Europe and Asia/Oceania, respectively, with the balance [5%] generated from Latin America.

FINANCIAL TRENDS: EL reported 2020 saw revenues fall 17% to EUR14.4 bln, with the largest declines in Latin America [-36%], compounded by the 14% FX headwind. Similar sales declines were experienced across Europe and Asia [-18%], while North American proved to be slightly more resilient [-14%]. These falls were primarily related to the Covid-19 pandemic, which left many stores closed as countries went through multiple lockdowns to suppress the pandemic. Most of the damage was inflicted in 1H 2020, where sales fell 29%. A more resilient 2H saw sales down just 5%, and were actually flat excluding currency impacts. Adjusted Net Income fell 59% to EUR788 as a 10% cut in the cost base was not enough to offset the top-line impacts.

2021 saw a better year—reported sales of EUR19.8 bln rebounded +20% higher versus pre-Covid 2019 levels [+40% Y/Y]. This was largely driven by the part-year (six months) contribution from the newly acquired GrandVision business. The core EL business (pre-acquisition) saw revenues +8% higher than 2019 levels. The result was largely achieved as countries (and EL stores) reopened and travel retail has gradually picked up. The sales recovery was largely North America driven, whilst Europe remained relatively lackluster in 2021. But the top-line bounce was enough for EBIT to recover dramatically to EUR2.3 bln on a reported basis. Post-GV acquisition, the EL business is now a EUR3.5 bln EBIT business on a pro-forma basis.

No specific 2022 guidance was provided, given the geopolitical uncertainty, though EL referenced long-term targets for mid-single-digit sales growth through to 2026, with EBIT margins to expand to 19%-20% (from about 16.5% levels in 2021). This would imply significant earnings growth potential should management execute these plans successfully.

EssilorLuxottica Société anonymeIndustry Outlook

Our sector recommendation for EMEA Health Care is Overweight. Year-to-date through May 30, 2023, the S&P Europe 350 Health Care Index slightly outperformed the market (+6.8% vs. a 6.6% increase in the broader S&P Europe 350 Index), led by the Healthcare Equipment & Services sub-sector. The sector is trading at ~17x 2023 P/E, at the upper end of the historical average range of 16x-17x, which is still decent in our view considering the higher EPS growth as compared to the market [S&P Capital IQ consensus estimates: 2023 EPS growth of 6.4% vs +0.3% for S&P Euro 350; 2024 EPS growth of 12.3% vs +6.9% for S&P Euro 350]. We see demand for health care to be generally resilient in the event of worsening macroeconomy. We expect volume growth and cost savings to drive the sector earnings, partly offset by continued pricing pressure, lower contribution from Covid-19-related sales, and overall cost inflation.

For the Pharmaceutical, Biotechnology, and Life Science sub-sector, we expect the rollout of new launches and core products to be the key growth drivers, providing some cushion to the lower Covid-19-related sales. Among the biggest potential launches of 2023 include Roche's gene therapy for Duchenne muscular dystrophy, GSK's vaccine for older adults against RSV, and AbbVie/Genmab's epcoritamab. Within our coverage, Novo Nordisk tops the sales and core EPS growth forecasts for 2023, boosted by the strong demand for its GLP-1 based diabetes and obesity treatments. At the opposite end, we see lower year-over-year earnings in 2023 for Roche (lower Covid-19-related sales) and Bayer (weaker Crop Science division due to the softening glyphosate prices and continued pricing pressure in pharmaceutical division). We also expect the ongoing efficiency program to help counter cost inflation. The majority of European pharmaceutical companies managed to record margin expansion on better efficiency as well as better product mix (e.g., stronger growth in the high-margin oncology/specialty care segments) in 2022 as well as in the March 2023 quarter.

For the Healthcare Equipment & Services sub-sector, we see easing headwinds with the combination of subsiding supply chain constraints, moderating energy prices, and the reopening of China creating room for demand recovery and margin improvement in 2023. That said, we are mindful of the wage inflation and pricing pressure from the implementation of the volume-based procurement program (VBP) in China. Most companies posted better sales in the March 2023 quarter on improved demand and better market conditions, but margins were mixed as not all companies under our coverage managed to offset cost inflation with efficiency and/or cost savings.

03:42 AM ET... CFRA Maintains Buy Opinion on Shares of EssilorLuxottica [EL FP 175.96]:

We maintain our Buy call on EssilorLuxottica [EL] at a 12-month target price of EUR182 based on a 2024 P/E of 27x, broadly at par with its 5-year average P/E of 28.8. We maintain our EPS forecasts of EUR6.04 for 2023 and EUR6.75 for 2024. EL reported Q2 2023 revenue of EUR6.7 bln [+8% Y/Y at constant rates], above S&P Capital IQ consensus estimate of EUR6.6 bln, driven by broad-based growth in all regions and categories. EMEA rose by 10.6% Y/Y due to overall market growth, while Asia-Pacific rose by 23.9% Y/Y due to China's reopening. The Americas showed a deceleration at 2.3% Y/Y, mainly due to softer demand in the retail sun business. EL reported H1 2023 EBIT margin of 18.4% [-10 bps Y/Y] as strong cost management offset inflationary headwinds. EL maintains its mid-single-digit annual revenue growth from 2022 to 2026. At current valuations, we believe the market has yet to fully price in its upside potential. / Ashman Razak

April 26, 2023

12:49 AM ET... CFRA Maintains Buy Opinion on Shares of EssilorLuxottica [EL FP 184.84]:

We maintain our Buy call on EssilorLuxottica [EL] at a 12-month target price of EUR182 based on a 2024 P/E of 27x, a premium to its 5-year average P/E of 20x, justified in our view by its market-leading position and 3-year consensus EPS CAGR of 15%. We maintain our EPS forecasts for 2023 of EUR6.04 and 2024 of EUR6.75. EL reported revenue of EUR6.2 bln [+9.7% Y/Y], above the S&P Capital IQ consensus estimate of EUR5.9 bln, driven by broad-based growth in all product segments and geography. Asia Pacific and Latin America outperformed as the former saw an acceleration due to the recovery in China and a robust sun category, while the latter experienced a rebound after a soft performance in Q4 2022. Notably, the Direct-to-Consumer segment was up 10.5% Y/Y, backed by comparable store sales growth of above 7%. We continue to like EL and remain confident it will achieve its 2022-2026 targets of mid-single-digit revenue growth, in line with our expectations. / Ashman Razak

03:24 AM ET... Correction: CFRA Raises Opinion on Shares of EssilorLuxottica to Buy from Hold [EL FP 165.85]:

We upgrade our call on EssilorLuxottica [EL] to a 4-STAR (Buy) with a revised 12-month target price of EUR182 [from EUR163] based on 2024 P/E of 27x, a premium to its 5-year average P/E of 23x, justified in our view by its market leading position and 3-year consensus EPS CAGR of 15%. We revise our EPS forecasts for 2023 to EUR6.04 [from EUR5.62] and introduce 2024 at EUR6.75. EL reported 2022 revenue of EUR24.5bln [14% Y/Y], in line with S&P Capital IQ consensus estimate, driven by strong mid-teens growth in both the professional solutions and direct-to-consumer businesses. EL recorded an adjusted EBIT margin of 16.8% [+70bps Y/Y], reflecting improved price/mix, productivity gain, and cost controls, in our view. EL remains confident of its 2022-2026 targets of mid-single-digit revenue growth, in line with our expectations. We turn more bullish over EL and believe it deserves to trade at a higher premium [vs. current P/E of 24.4x] given its strong execution towards set targets and market leading position. / Ashman Razak

October 24, 2022

12:07 AM ET... CFRA Maintains Hold Opinion on Shares of EssilorLuxottica [EL FP 153.45]:

We maintain our 12-month target price for Essilorluxottica [EL] of EUR163 based on 2023 P/E of 29x, a premium to its 5-year average P/E of 23x, justified in our view by expectations for mid-single-digit sales growth and ongoing synergy benefits from the GrandVision [GV] acquisition. We maintain our EPS forecasts of EUR4.95 for 2022 and EUR5.62 for 2023. For Q3 2022, EL reported revenue of EUR6.4 bln [17% Y/Y] ahead of S&P Capital IQ consensus estimate of EUR6.2 bln, driven by double-digit growth in nearly all regions and positive currency impact. North America and EMEA posted organic growth of +3.4% Y/Y on the back of strong comparables and +9.2% Y/Y from the sun business, respectively, but revenue growth was heavily impacted by the strengthening of the USD/EUR. Though we continue to like EL's story, which is predicated on significant synergies from the merged-GV entity while maintaining sales momentum, we find the stock expensive at current valuation of 28x P/E. / Ashman Razak

August 01, 2022

01:39 AM ET... CFRA Maintains Hold Opinion on Shares of EssilorLuxottica [EL FP 152.45]:

We adjust our 12-month target price for Essilorluxottica [EL] to EUR163 [from EUR170] based on 2023 P/E of 29x, a premium to its 5-year average P/E of 23x, justified in our view by expectations for MSD sales growth and ongoing synergy benefits from the GV acquisition. We revise our EPS forecasts to EUR4.95 [from EUR6.22] for 2022 and EUR5.62 [from EUR6.52] for 2023. For H1 2022, EL reported revenue of EUR12 bln [37% Y/Y] ahead of S&P Capital IQ consensus estimate of EUR11.7 bln, driven by broad-based teens % growth for all segments. Ex-GV, comp. revenue grew at 14%. Adjusted-EBIT margin grew to 18% [+100 bps Y/Y], reflecting better price mix from new luxury frame launches, strong cost controls, and early synergies from GV. We expect sales normalization moving forward at current margins. In the medium term, EL's story is more dependent on extracting significant synergies from the merged-GV entity while maintaining sales momentum, in our view. / Firdaus Ibrahim, CFA

09:34 AM ET... CFRA Maintains Hold Rating on Shares of EssilorLuxottica [EL FP 164.08]:

We reiterate our Hold call on EssilorLuxottica [EL] with an unchanged EUR170 target. EL's 1Q22 came out at EUR5.6bn, up 38% y/y as the impact of the GrandVision [GV] acquisition flowed through. On a comparable basis [assuming a GV contribution in 1Q21] sales were up 16% y/y and 12% ex-FX tailwinds. The growth was broad-based, with the Consumer division recovering [+18%] whilst Professional Solutions aimed at Opticians also grew at double digit comparable rates [+14%]. It was the EMEA [+17%] and LatAm [+28%] regions that drove the 1Q result, as Europe cycled the prior periods' lock-down restrictions. With the result being in line with our 1H22 sales expectations, we view the update as largely on track, though there was no accompanying earnings update. Consequently we retain our Hold call and leave our EPS figures unchanged at EUR6.22 and EUR6.52 for 2022 and 2023, respectively. / Andrew Tam

March 14, 2022

12:04 PM ET... CFRA Retains Hold Rating on Shares of Essilor Luxottica [EL FP 159.98]:

We retain our Hold call on Essilor Luxottica [EL], with an unchanged EUR170 target. In a solid end to 2021, EL reported sales of EUR19.8bn, in line with our estimates, which included a six-month contribution from the GrandVision acquisition. On a proforma basis [full year contribution], sales of EUR21.5bn were up +7% ex-FX [+3% at current rates] versus pre-Covid 2019 levels. Strong organic contributions from both North America [+13%] and Latam [+10%] drove the result, offsetting a more subdued EMEA [+4%], whilst it was the Direct to Consumer [+15%] that drove most of the rebound. EBIT successfully recovered to EUR2.3bn [2020:EUR452m] thanks to the top-line recovery reflecting 11.7% operating margin. Whilst EL had little direct exposure to Russia/Ukraine [<1% of sales], the ongoing war left EL withholding guidance for 2022. We tweak down our 2022 EPS to EUR6.22 [6.96] reflecting slightly higher near-term investments, whilst setting 2023 at EUR6.52. With modest upside to our target, we retain the Hold call. / Andrew Tam

Glossary

STARS

Since January 1, 1987, CFRA Equity and Fund Research Services, and its predecessor S&P Capital IQ Equity Research has ranked a universe of U.S. common stocks, ADRs [American Depositary Receipts], and ADSs [American Depositary Shares] based on a given equity's potential for future performance. Similarly, we have ranked Asian and European equities since June 30, 2002. Under proprietary STARS [Stock Appreciation Ranking System], equity analysts rank equities according to their individual forecast of an equity's future total return potential versus the expected total return of a relevant benchmark [e.g., a regional index (MSCI AC Asia Pacific Index, MSCI AC Europe Index or S&P 500® Index)], based on a 12-month time horizon. STARS was designed to help investors looking to put their investment decisions in perspective. Data used to assist in determining the STARS ranking may be the result of the analyst's own models as well as internal proprietary models resulting from dynamic data inputs.

S&P Global Market Intelligence's Quality Ranking

[also known as S&P Capital IQ Earnings & Dividend Rankings] - Growth and S&P Capital IQ Earnings & Dividend Rankings stability of earnings and dividends are deemed key elements in establishing S&P Global Market Intelligence's earnings and dividend rankings for common stocks, which are designed to capsize the nature of this record in a single symbol. It should be noted, however, that the process also takes into consideration certain adjustments and modifications deemed desirable in establishing such rankings. The final score for each stock is measured against a scoring matrix determined by analysis of the scores of a large and representative sample of stocks. The range of scores in the array of this sample has been aligned with the following ladder of rankings:

A+ Highest	B Below Average
A High	B- Lower
A Above	C Lowest
B+ Average	D In Reorganization
NC Not Ranked

EPS Estimates

CFRA's earnings per share (EPS) estimates reflect analyst projections of future EPS from continuing operations, and generally exclude various items that are viewed as special, non-recurring, or extraordinary. Also, EPS estimates reflect either forecasts of equity analysts; or, the consensus [average] EPS estimate, which are independently compiled by S&P Global Market Intelligence, a data provider to CFRA. Among the items typically excluded from EPS estimates are asset sale gains; impairment, restructuring or merger-related charges; legal and insurance settlements; in process research and development expenses; gains or losses on the extinguishment of debt; the cumulative effect of accounting changes; and earnings related to operations that have been classified by the company as discontinued. The inclusion of some items, such as stock option expense and recurring types of other charges, may vary, and depend on such factors as industry practice, analyst judgment, and the extent to which some types of data is disclosed by companies.

12-Month Target Price

The equity analyst's projection of the market price a given security will command 12 months hence, based on a combination of intrinsic, relative, and private market valuation metrics, including Fair Value.

Qualitative Risk Assessment

Reflects an equity analyst's view of a given company's operational risk, or the risk of a firm's ability to continue as an ongoing concern. The Qualitative Risk Assessment is a relative ranking to the U.S. STARS universe, and should be reflective of risk factors related to a company's operations, as opposed to risk and volatility measures associated with share prices. For an ETF this reflects on a capitalization-weighted basis, the average qualitative risk assessment assigned to holdings of the fund.

STARS Ranking system and definition:

★★★★★ 5-STARS (Strong Buy):

Disclosures

Stocks are ranked in accordance with the following ranking methodologies:

STARS Stock Reports:

Qualitative STARS rankings are determined and assigned by equity analysts. For reports containing STARS rankings refer to the Glossary section of the report for detailed methodology and the definition of STARS rankings.

Quantitative Stock Reports:

Quantitative rankings are determined by ranking a universe of common stocks based on 5 measures or model categories: Valuation, Quality, Growth, Street Sentiment, and Price Momentum. In the U.S., a sixth sub-category for Financial Health will also be displayed. Percentile scores are used to compare each company to all other companies in the same universe for each model category. The five [six] model category scores are then weighted and rolled up into a single percentile ranking for that company. For reports containing quantitative rankings refer to the Glossary section seof the report for detailed methodology and the definition of Quantitative rankings.

STARS Stock Reports and Quantitative Stock Reports:

The methodologies used in STARS Stock Reports and Quantitative Stock Reports [collectively, the "Research Reports"] reflect different criteria, assumptions and analytical methods and may have differing rankings. The methodologies and data used to generate the different types of Research Reports are believed by the author and distributor reasonable and appropriate. Generally, CFRA does not generate reports with different ranking methodologies for the same issuer. However, in the event that different methodologies or data are used on the analysis of an issuer, the methodologies may lead to different views on the issuer, which may at times result in contradicting assessments of an issuer. CFRA reserves the right to alter, replace or vary models, methodologies or assumptions from time to time and without notice to clients.
