Highlights	Investment Rationale/Risk
► We forecast revenue reaching $9.9B in 2023 and $10.8B in 2024, following a 259% increase to $8.8B in 2022 due to the rebound from pandemic-related disruptions. We expect a continued growth in revenue per available room (RevPAR) across geographical regions, with Asia-Pacific and Europe leading the way, followed by North America to a lesser extent. Additionally, we note management's guidance of system-wide RevPAR growth of 10%-12% and new unit growth of approximately 5%, along with a strategic focus on growing fee-based revenues and capturing market share in the low- to mid-priced hotel segments within the U.S. HLT's customer loyalty program (HHonors) also continues to demonstrate robust growth [+20% Y/Y] surpassing 165M members in Q2 2023. ► We project an adjusted EBITDA margin of 67.8% in 2023, a modest decline from 68.9% in 2022, mainly due to persistent inflationary pressures, primarily labor costs, partially offset by robust top-line growth. We also expect new unit growth in the 5.0%-5.5% range in 2023, following HLT's addition of 23,200 rooms in 1H 2023. ► After depreciation and amortization, as well as interest expense and taxes, we project EPS of $6.00 in 2023 and $6.65 in 2024.	► Our Buy rating reflects what we view as an attractive valuation on the shares and potential improvement in fundamentals. While we expect a revenue growth slowdown in 2H 2023, we think the deceleration will be smaller than consensus estimates. Despite HLT's slightly lower guidance on 2023 net rooms growth to around 5% vs. a 5.25% midpoint, we also think a reacceleration to 6%-7% post-2024 is achievable. This view is bolstered by HLT's plans to gain share in the low- to mid-priced tier hotel segments in the U.S. with a focus on hotel conversions. Over time, this should boost HLT's margins and have network effects by growing loyalty members in younger age cohorts who tend to value travel more. ► Risks to our recommendation and target price include 1) a recession or decline in travel-related spending, 2) higher competition from alternative accommodations [i.e., Airbnb], and 3) a slow recovery in China. ► On July 26, we lifted our 12-month target by $8 to $165 on a 2024 EV/EBITDA of 16.0x, a discount to HLT's five-year average forward EV/EBITDA of 22.4x, justified by the risk of slower net rooms growth and recession. In Q2, HLT returned $510M to shareholders [$470M in buybacks and $40M in dividends].

Analyst's Risk Assessment
LOW	MEDIUM	HIGH

Our risk assessment partly reflects uncertainties regarding the full impact of a pullback in travel demand in the second half of 2023 on the company's operations in the U.S. and international markets. Also, we note increased competition from newer entrants in the alternative accommodations space within the so-called "sharing economy" (including Airbnb and others). On the other hand, the company has well-known hospitality brands with potential upside on further penetration across international markets and a capital-light business model that will likely bode well for its financial flexibility, in our view.

Hilton Worldwide Holdings Inc.

Business Summary Aug 09, 2023

CORPORATE OVERVIEW. Hilton is one of the largest hospitality companies in the world. In 2022, the company managed, owned, or leased 7,165 hotels, resorts, and timeshare properties, with a total of 1,127,430 rooms in 123 countries and territories. The company’s brand portfolio includes a variety of focused service hotel brands, full-service hotel brands, all-suites hotel brands, luxury hotel brands, emerging lifestyle hotel brands, and a time share brand.

In 2022, the company’s focused service hotel brands include Hilton Garden Inn, Hampton by Hilton, and Tru by Hilton, which account for 42.4% of Hilton’s total rooms. The company’s full-service hotel brands include Signia by Hilton, Hilton Hotels & Resorts, and DoubleTree by Hilton, which account for 33.4% of total rooms. The company’s all-suites hotel brands include Embassy Suites by Hilton, Homewood Suites by Hilton, Home2 Suites by Hilton, and its new premium economy brand, Spark by Hilton, which account for 16.3% of total rooms. Hilton’s luxury hotel brands include Waldorf Astoria Hotels & Resorts, LXR Hotels & Resorts, and Conrad Hotels & Resorts, which account for 2.4% of the company’s total rooms. Hilton’s lifestyle hotel brands include Canopy by Hilton, Curio Collection by Hilton, Tapestry Collection by Hilton, Tempo by Hilton, and Motto by Hilton, accounting for 4% of total rooms. The company’s remaining rooms consist of its time share brand, Hilton Grand Vacations, which accounts for 1.2% of total rooms, as well as 10 unbranded properties, which account for 0.3% of total rooms.

Hilton’s reportable operating segments are comprised of two segments that are based on similar products or services. The first segment, Management and Franchise, included 778 managed hotels and 6,335 franchised hotels in 2022. This segment generates revenue from management and franchise fees charged to third-party hotel owners; licensing fees for the right to use the company’s IP from Hotel Grand Vacations and strategic partnerships such as co-branded credit card arrangements; and fees for managing hotels in the company’s ownership segment. The second segment, Ownership, includes 52 properties and primarily derives profits from providing nightly hotel room sales, food and beverage sales, and other services.

In terms of geography, in 2022, the U.S. represented about 70% of Hilton’s total rooms; the Americas (ex-U.S.) represented about 6% of total rooms; Europe accounted for 9%, the Middle East and Africa accounted for 3%, and the Asia Pacific represented 13% of total rooms.

In 2022, the company also had 152 million members in its loyalty program, Hilton Honors, a 19% increase over the year. Hilton Honors supports 19 brands of Hilton’s managed, franchised, owned, and leased hotels and resort properties.

COMPETITIVE LANDSCAPE. The hotel industry is very competitive and fragmented. Hilton competes with providers of hotels, resorts, motels, inns, and other types of accommodation rental services such as Airbnb. However, the company’s principal competitors include other branded and independent hotel operating companies, such as Marriott International, Hyatt Hotels Corporation, and Intercontinental Hotel Group.

CORPORATE STRATEGY. The company’s strategic goals include the continued expansion of its global portfolio and its fee-based business. The company plans to accomplish this by increasing the number of management and franchise contracts with third-party owners, which typically have initial terms of approximately 20-30 years. This allows Hilton to increase revenues, ROIC, and cash available to support its business needs with minimal or no capital investment required by the company as a manager or franchisor. The company also plans to expand its share of the global hotel network through its development pipeline, despite the challenges posed by delays in openings and new development. In 2022, the company saw net unit growth of 4.7%, with 2,821 hotels in its development pipeline along with 664 net additions to its brand portfolio. About 60% of HLT’s pipeline rooms are located outside the U.S. and roughly half are under construction.

FINANCIAL TRENDS. Hilton’s revenue was $8.8 billion in 2022, up from $5.79 billion in 2021 but down from $9.45 billion in 2019. System-wide comparable RevPAR was $101.90 in 2022 from $73.65 in 2021 and $109.65 in 2019, representing an increase of 42.5% (ex-FX) over the year but still 7% below pre-pandemic levels. The company’s system-wide ADR (average daily rate) also increased to $151.01 in 2022 from $128.82 in 2021, an increase of 20.6% (ex-FX) over the year and above the pre-pandemic level of $144.79 by 4%. In a similar fashion, the company’s occupancy also improved in 2022 to 67.5% from 57% in 2021 but remained below the pre-pandemic level of 76%.

The company’s adjusted EBITDA was $2.60 billion [68.9% margin] in 2022, up from $1.63 billion [65.8% margin] in 2021 and $2.31 billion [60.8%] in 2019.

In terms of the balance sheet, Hilton’s financial leverage and liquidity improved over the year. While the company’s net debt increased to $7.5 billion in 2022 from $7.3 billion in 2021, the company’s net debt to adjusted EBITDA fell to 2.9x in 2022 from 4.5x in 2021. The company’s current ratio and quick ratio also improved to 0.85x and 0.75x in 2022 from 0.95x and 0.83x in 2021.

Sub-Industry Outlook

We are neutral on the hotels, resorts, and cruise lines subindustry, which has continued to demonstrate strong demand following the pandemic, especially in the leisure sector. However, as we look ahead, we anticipate a moderation in revenue growth during the latter half of 2023 and early 2024. This forecast factors in seasonality, the influence of increased pricing on consumer spending, and a slower-than-expected recovery in business travel and the China market post their “Zero-Covid” policy. Moreover, certain companies might encounter unanticipated margin pressures due to elevated labor costs.

The global hospitality industry includes the major operators of hotel chains, vacation ownership (timeshare) businesses, and alternative accommodations. Even in the face of an uncertain macroeconomic climate, the global hospitality industry has continued to demonstrate its resilience and potential for secular growth following the pandemic. In our view, this is largely due to the shift in consumer spending towards experiential purchases such as travel, which has been better than expected. As a result, we expect the industry to post positive revenue growth annually and sequentially, though the year-over-year growth rate is likely to slow as the industry transitions beyond its post-pandemic recovery phase. The industry is also likely to continue benefiting from strong demand for leisure and group travel, while the revival of business travel is anticipated to contribute, albeit at a slower pace and still lagging pre-pandemic occupancy levels.

Nonetheless, we expect some travel-related companies will confront hurdles. Companies with exposure to the Chinese market may grapple with challenges due to recent issues in their property sector and international travel demand. In terms of profit margins, we project most companies will see inflationary pressures moderate. Yet, we also anticipate some companies may face slower-than-anticipated declines in specific costs, especially related to labor.

Hotel operators also continue to grapple with construction difficulties, resulting in an increase in asset recycling and mergers and acquisitions to drive supply growth. This is largely due to tougher financial conditions for developers, permitting delays, and elevated costs. Consequently, alongside changes in post-pandemic travel trends, extended-stay hotels have garnered more new development in the U.S., accounting for roughly 30% of planned rooms. In addition, interest in alternative accommodation options, such as Airbnb and Vrbo, could intensify competition for traditional hotel operators, especially as travelers increasingly opt for longer stays.

Separately, cruise line operators have continued to see strong consumer demand, leading us to project occupancy rates exceeding 100% for the year. However, heading into late 2023 and early 2024, the threat of recession still looms, especially considering cruise line operators’ high debt levels. Furthermore, potential risks, including a slowdown in booking trends, rising interest rates, and lingering inflationary pressures, persist.

Through July 7, 2023, the S&P 1500 Hotels, Resorts & Cruise Lines Index grew 33.6% vs. the 29.4% increase for the S&P 1500 Consumer Discretionary Index and 19.1% increase for the S&P 1500 Composite Index. In 2022, the S&P 1500 Hotels, Resorts & Cruise Lines Index fell 24.4% vs. the 36.3% drop for the broader the S&P 1500 Consumer Discretionary Index and a 19.1% drop for the S&P 1500 Composite Index.

Analyst Research Notes and other Company News

July 26, 2023

03:10 PM ET... CFRA Keeps Buy Opinion on Shares of Hilton Worldwide Holdings Inc. [HLT 149.03*]:

We lift our 12-month target by $8 to $165 on 2024 EV/EBITDA of 16.0x, a discount to HLT's five-year average forward EV/EBITDA of 22.4x, justified by the risk of slower net rooms growth and recession. We raise our 2023 EPS view to $6.00 from $5.64 but lower 2024's to $6.65 from $6.70. HLT posted Q2 adj.-EPS of $1.63, $0.05 above consensus. Revenue of $2,660M [+18.8% Y/Y] was $111M above consensus. Adj-EBITDA grew 19.4% to $811M vs $785M consensus, with margin widening 20 bps Y/Y. Systemwide RevPAR comp grew 12.1% Y/Y to $122.02, driven by occupancy [+3.8 points to 74.6%] and average daily rate [ADR; +5.9% to $163.47]. In our view, HLT's robust results and better-than-expected recovery pace in China were overshadowed by the growth deceleration in key operating metrics and guidance. For 2023, HLT now expects net rooms growth of 5% [vs. a 5.25% midpoint], with an acceleration to 6% to 7% beyond 2024 -- a target we find achievable. HLT also noted a slight pullback in leisure travel demand in certain popular areas. / Siye Desta, CFA

April 27, 2023

01:58 PM ET... CFRA Lifts Opinion on Shares of Hilton Worldwide Holdings, Inc to Buy from Hold [HLT 140.46*]:

We trim our 12-month target price to $157 from $166 on '24 EV/EBITDA of 16.2x, a discount to HLT's five-year forward EV/EBITDA of 22.3x, justified by the potential slowdown in travel demand in 2H 23. We lower our '23 EPS estimate to $5.64 from $5.66 and '24's to $6.70 from $6.82. HLT posts Q1 adj.-EPS of $1.24, $0.10 above consensus. Revenue of $2,293M [+33.2% Y/Y] was $110M above consensus. Adj-EBITDA grew 43.1%, to $641M vs. 608M consensus, with margin expanding 17 bps. Systemwide RevPAR comp grew 30.0% Y/Y to $103.72, driven by occupancy [+9.6 points to 67.7%] and average daily rate [ADR; +11.2% to $153.20]. Despite HLT's strong results, concerns persist over the macro outlook for travel in 2H 23, amid industry supply constraints. HLT plans to address this by gaining market share in the mid- to low-priced segments. While this may drag on RevPAR growth, we think HLT's cost-effective conversion strategy, appeal to younger demographics, and the long-term network effects are all positives for future growth. / Siye Desta, CFA

February 10, 2023

09:04 AM ET... CFRA Keeps Hold Opinion on Shares of Hilton Worldwide Holdings, Inc. [HLT 150.80*]:

We lift our target price to $166 from $145 on EV/EBITDA of 18.8x, a discount to HLT's five-year forward EV/EBITDA of 22.3x, but a premium to its 10-year forward EV/EBITDA of 18.2x. We raise our 2023 EPS to $5.66 from $5.41 and initiate our 2024 EPS at $6.82. HLT posts Q4 adj.-EPS of $1.59, $0.37 above consensus. Revenue of $2,444M [+33.1% Y/Y] was $96M above consensus. Adj-EBITDA grew 44% Y/Y to $740M vs $667M consensus, with margin expanding 320 bps. Systemwide comparable RevPAR [ex-FX] increased 24.8% Y/Y, driven by higher occupancy [+5.5% Y/Y to 67.0%], higher ADR [+14.5% to $151.81], and fee revenue [+30% Y/Y]. China continued to be a headwind over the quarter, but we are cautiously optimistic that the ongoing recovery will turn into a tailwind. For 2023, HLT expects system-wide RevPAR growth of 4%-8% and new unit growth of 5%-5.5%. We remain encouraged by HLT's strong development pipeline, especially with the launch of its Spark brand, but concerns persist over travel demand softness, especially in 2H 2023. / Siye Desta

October 27, 2022

12:29 PM ET... CFRA Keeps Hold Opinion on Shares of Hilton Worldwide Holdings, Inc. [HLT 132.93*]:

We lift our target price by $3 to $145 on 2023 EV/EBITDA of 15.5x, a discount to its 10-year forward EV/EBITDA of 16.4x. We raise our 2022 EPS by $0.16 to $4.48 and lower 2023's by $0.06 to $5.41. HLT posts Q3 adj.-EPS of $1.31, $0.07 above consensus. Revenue of $2,368M [+35.4%] was $42M below consensus. Adj-EBITDA grew 41% Y/Y to $732M vs. $687M consensus, with margins expanding 180 bps. Systemwide comparable RevPAR [ex-FX] increased 29.9% Y/Y to $114.04, driven by higher occupancy [+8.7% Y/Y to 73.2%], ADR [+14.5% Y/Y to $155.86], and fee revenues [+33% Y/Y]. However, HLT's occupancy rate remained below 2019 levels [76.8%], despite robust leisure travel, as business transient and group travel lagged. HLT raised its guidance for RevPAR vs. 2019 from a midrange of -3% to -2% and reaffirmed net unit growth of about 5%. In our view, HLT's strong development pipeline vs. peers should better position the company in the long term, but in the near term, we have concerns over weaker travel demand due to macro factors. / Siye

01:45 PM ET... CFRA Keeps Hold Opinion on Shares of Hilton Worldwide Holdings, Inc. [HLT 127.80*]:

We trim our target price by $17 to $142 on 2022 EV/EBITDA of 16x, a discount to its 10-year forward EV/EBITDA of 18.2x, justified by the slowing macro environment and system-wide RevPAR still below 2019 levels [-2.1%]. Our 2023 EPS is $5.47, up from $5.45, with 2022 raised to $4.32 from $4.11. Revenue of $2,240M [+68% Y/Y] was $136M above consensus, while Q2 EPS of $1.29 beat by $0.24, driven by higher system-wide RevPAR [ex-FX] [+54% Y/Y] and adjusted EBITDA margins [+30 bps Y/Y] due to outperformance in fee growth. Despite HLT showing further signs of making a recovery back to 2019 levels with higher occupancy [+12.3% Y/Y to 70.8%], largely from robust leisure trends and an improvement in the business transient cohort, occupancy remained below 2019 levels [79.4%]. In addition, going into 2H 2022, there concerns about travel demand due to weaker discretionary spending, staffing shortages weighing on occupancy rates, and the ability to offset any RevPAR declines with unit growth due to lower owner demand. / Siye Desta

12:35 PM ET... CFRA Keeps Hold Opinion on Shares of Hilton Worldwide Holdings, Inc. [HLT 149.28*]:

We lower our target price by $11 to $159 on 2022 EV/EBITDA of 22.0x, above the peer average of 18.6x but still well below its recent historical averages. We keep our 2022 EPS estimate at $4.11 and 2023 at $5.45. HLT reported Q1 2022 adj. EPS of $0.71 vs. $0.02, a $0.05 consensus beat on revenues that came in slightly below expectations [$1.72B vs. $1.75B] and remain 22% below Q1 2019 levels. We believe results are encouraging, as HLT saw strong occupancy gains [+14.6% Y/Y to 58.1%] and RevPAR growth [+80.1% Y/Y to $80.84] in Q1. We believe these trends will continue through 2022 as pent-up demand drives leisure travel while business and group travel continue to accelerate as Covid variant concerns moderate and workers return to the office. However, we think results will continue to lag 2019 levels. Adj. EBITDA margins widened by 11.1% year over year to 66.1%. HLT resumed share buybacks in March, repurchasing $130M shares while also reinstating its quarterly dividend [$0.15/share] in May. / Michael Elliott

February 16, 2022

11:30 AM ET... CFRA Keeps Hold Opinion on Shares of Hilton Worldwide, Inc. [HLT 157.21*]:

We raise our 12-month target by $18 to $170 on '22 EV/EBITDA of 24.8x, notably above its peers but well below its recent historical averages. We cut '22 EPS estimate by $0.09 to $4.11 and set '23's at $5.45. We think HLT's relatively encouraging Q4 '21 results showed further notable strides on the road to recovery, seemingly paced by pent-up demand for leisure travel vs. a more tentative near-term outlook for business travel. But, with lingering concerns with the Omicron variant, we see an uneven pace of recovery for global travel and tourism across regions. Q4 adjusted EPS of $0.72 vs. $0.10 loss was $0.01 below consensus. Revenue recovered to $1.84B [vs. $890M] as systemwide RevPAR [ex-FX] rose 104% [vs. depressed '20 level] on continued improvement across geographic regions [ex-Asia Pacific] albeit still off 14% vs. pre-pandemic Q4 '19. Adjusted EBITDA margin widened 500 basis points. With its dividend and share buybacks still suspended, we see HLT deftly managing its liquidity and financial flexibility. / Tuna N. Amobi, CFA, CPA

Glossary

STARS

Since January 1, 1987, CFRA Equity and Fund Research Services, and its predecessor S&P Capital IQ Equity Research has ranked a universe of U.S. common stocks, ADRs [American Depositary Receipts], and ADSs [American Depositary Shares] based on a given equity's potential for future performance. Similarly, we have ranked Asian and European equities since June 30, 2002. Under proprietary STARS [Stock Appreciation Ranking System], equity analysts rank equities according to their individual forecast of an equity's future total return potential versus the expected total return of a relevant benchmark [e.g., a regional index (MSCI AC Asia Pacific Index, MSCI AC Europe Index or S&P 500® Index)], based on a 12-month time horizon. STARS was designed to help investors looking to put their investment decisions in perspective. Data used to assist in determining the STARS ranking may be the result of the analyst's own models as well as internal proprietary models resulting from dynamic data inputs.

S&P Global Market Intelligence's Quality Ranking

[also known as S&P Capital IQ Earnings & Dividend Rankings] - Growth and S&P Capital IQ Earnings & Dividend Rankings stability of earnings and dividends are deemed key elements in establishing S&P Global Market Intelligence's earnings and dividend rankings for common stocks, which are designed to capsuleize the nature of this record in a single symbol. It should be noted, however, that the process also takes into consideration certain adjustments and modifications deemed desirable in establishing such rankings. The final score for each stock is measured against a scoring matrix determined by analysis of the scores of a large and representative sample of stocks. The range of scores in the array of this sample has been aligned with the following ladder of rankings:

A+ Highest	B Below Average
A High	B- Lower
A Above	C Lowest
B+ Average	D In Reorganization
NC Not Ranked

EPS Estimates

CFRA's earnings per share (EPS) estimates reflect analyst projections of future EPS from continuing operations, and generally exclude various items that are viewed as special, non-recurring, or extraordinary. Also, EPS estimates reflect either forecasts of equity analysts; or, the consensus [average] EPS estimate, which are independently compiled by S&P Global Market Intelligence, a data provider to CFRA. Among the items typically excluded from EPS estimates are asset sale gains; impairment, restructuring or merger-related charges; legal and insurance settlements; in process research and development expenses; gains or losses on the extinguishment of debt; the cumulative effect of accounting changes; and earnings related to operations that have been classified by the company as discontinued. The inclusion of some items, such as stock option expense and recurring types of other charges, may vary, and depend on such factors as industry practice, analyst judgment, and the extent to which some types of data is disclosed by companies.

12-Month Target Price

The equity analyst's projection of the market price a given security will command 12 months hence, based on a combination of intrinsic, relative, and private market valuation metrics, including Fair Value.

Qualitative Risk Assessment

Reflects an equity analyst's view of a given company's operational risk, or the risk of a firm's ability to continue as an ongoing concern. The Qualitative Risk Assessment is a relative ranking to the U.S. STARS universe, and should be reflective of risk factors related to a company's operations, as opposed to risk and volatility measures associated with share prices. For an ETF this reflects on a capitalization-weighted basis, the average qualitative risk assessment assigned to holdings of the fund.

STARS Ranking system and definition:

★★★★★ 5-STARS (Strong Buy):

Total return is expected to outperform the total return of a relevant benchmark, by a notable margin over the coming 12 months, with shares rising in price on an absolute basis.

★★★★★ 4-STARS (Buy):

Disclosures

Stocks are ranked in accordance with the following ranking methodologies:

STARS Stock Reports:

Qualitative STARS rankings are determined and assigned by equity analysts. For reports containing STARS rankings refer to the Glossary section of the report for detailed methodology and the definition of STARS rankings.

Quantitative Stock Reports:

Quantitative rankings are determined by ranking a universe of common stocks based on 5 measures or model categories: Valuation, Quality, Growth, Street Sentiment, and Price Momentum. In the U.S., a sixth sub-category for Financial Health will also be displayed. Percentile scores are used to compare each company to all other companies in the same universe for each model category. The five [six] model category scores are then weighted and rolled up into a single percentile ranking for that company. For reports containing quantitative rankings refer to the Glossary section seof the report for detailed methodology and the definition of Quantitative rankings.

STARS Stock Reports and Quantitative Stock Reports:

The methodologies used in STARS Stock Reports and Quantitative Stock Reports [collectively, the "Research Reports"] reflect different criteria, assumptions and analytical methods and may have differing rankings. The methodologies and data used to generate the different types of Research Reports are believed by the author and distributor reasonable and appropriate. Generally, CFRA does not generate reports with different ranking methodologies for the same issuer. However, in the event that different methodologies or data are used on the analysis of an issuer, the methodologies may lead to different views on the issuer, which may at times result in contradicting assessments of an issuer. CFRA reserves the right to alter, replace or vary models, methodologies or assumptions from time to time and without notice to clients.
